

CARING FOR

FICUS

Ficus plants, known as fig plants, are celebrated for their lush foliage. Hailing from global tropical regions, they're prized for their beauty and air-purifying qualities. Ficus plants are sensitive to change. Consistency in care leads to a healthy, vibrant plant.

Watering

Water thoroughly where water drains out the bottom of the pot. Allow top inch of soil to dry before watering again. If leaves start to fall, add misting to the regimen.

Sunlight

Place in bright, indirect light. Avoid too much direct sunlight to prevent leaf scorching.

Fertilizer

Feed with balanced liquid fertilizer every 4-6 weeks in growing season (April-July)

Pruning

Trim for shape, remove leggy growth, and dead leaves.

Pests

Regularly inspect for pests like mealybugs, scale, and spider mites. Treat promptly with insecticidal soap or neem oil.
